DIPLOMATIC BOOZE
SEIZURE HAS LEAD
TO COMPLICATIONS
ACTION BY GOVERNMENT
AGENTS IN SEARCHING
BAGGAGE IS RE-
SENTED.

ORDER OF HOUSE
Departure From Previous Policy of Free Entry Is Made.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Action by government agents in seizing liquor consigned to the diplomatic corps in Washington has led to some complications, it was learned today at the state department. While no formal protests have been lodged with the government, the situation has reached the point where the department called upon today to issue a public statement.

The home is expressed in this statement that no agent of the government will interfere with the baggage or other personal possessions of any member of the diplomatic corps or of his family.

Baggage Is Entered.

Information has reached the state department, it was said, that personal baggage of the diplomats have been entered by government agents and liquor removed. The property seized was held for further claim from the owner, but department officials said often the liquor disappeared before it could be called for.

Diplomats contend it is a recognized principle of international law that the personal baggage of a diplomat is free from inspection by customs or other agents of friendly nation.

Shouse Issued Order.

Orders to customs officials to search the baggage of diplomats were issued yesterday by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Shouse, whose resignation was announced yesterday, effective November 15. The orders

"In order to prevent the importation of intoxicating beverages in violation of the national prohibition act as construed by the attorney general it has become necessary to require the examination of all baggage and effects of persons who enter in grants passes to the provisions of section 355 of the customs regulations of 1915."

The decision also includes those situations to the collection of customs: "You may not make an immediate report to the secretary of the treasury (divisions of customs) of all violations of the prohibition law which come to your attention as the result of such examinations."

As this practice will be a distinct advantage for the custom that has delayed from the custom that has prevailed of waiving examination when admitting effects to free entry, you should take immediate steps to impress upon your local the necessity for careful compliance with the regulations as amended by this decision."

Confidential instructions as to the methods to be employed in searching the baggage of diplomats were voted sent to the customs force but the treasury department refused to make these public.

SALE OF GUERNSEYS
BRINGS LOW PRICES;
TOTAL HITS $26,632

With the sale of 60 head of grade Guernseys and six pure bred bulls Friday afternoon, the first annual sale of the Southern Wisconsin Breeders' Association, held close to total, Saturday amounted to $26,632.50, an average price of $447.50, the highest price sale of the day for a grade cow was one conducted by Will Roe, Whitewater, bought by F. M. Byers, Moline, Ill., for $237.50. Close to $2,000 was sold by O. S. Holman, Park Mantua.

Contributors to the sale were Harry Walton, Footville, whose complete herd of 20 grade cows was sold to A. R. Jackson, Beloit; W. J. Johnson, Janesville; Grover Kuhn, New Junction; and E. Smith, Janesville.

Total sales for the two days amounted to $26,632.50, as the pure bred sales totaled $20,070. Considering the quality of stock offered the sale the price at which they sold were somewhat unexpected. Officials, however, considered the results very encouraging as the surrounding country has never had a strong Guernsey section.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS STILL AT HOSPITAL

Injuries suffered by Miss Marjorie Boyce and Mrs. Edmund C. White, both by a car accident yesterday, are considered more serious than first reported by hospital authorities. Both spent restless nights at Mercy Hospital.

Miss Clafft is suffering severe pain from a gash in the back of her head. In her left arm she has a cut and bruise on her forehead and back. Seven stitches were necessary to sew up the wound in Miss Boyce's knee. She is also suffering pain from a cut on her back and a general shaking up.

STOLEN AT AFTON

A Hudson car was stolen near Afton this morning, it was reported to Sheriff Bely by a party of hunters. He made an investigation but failed to gain any trace of the machine.

Recoveries Pen

I certainly want to thank the Gazette for the splendid results I secured through the use of a small classified ad," said Miss Rosamond Cook, 334 Cornell street.

Miss Cook placed an ad for one night advertising a certain pen, which she lost. The pen was returned to her car driven by W. S. Lovecock, 429 Prospect avenue.

GAZETTE TELEPHONE HOURS

Contracts for December delivery sold off to 13 cents a pound on a full cent below the closing quotation of yesterday.

New Orleans, Oct. 16.—Contracts on the local cotton market today broke $10 a bale under extremely heavy liquidation of long cotton, inspired by the British coal strike and fear of its consequences.

Nearly a Million Good "Smokes" Manufactured in Janesville Yearly

Janesville's six cigar factories turn out 900,000 cigars annually according to the best figures obtainable. On a basis of 200 working days in a year this would mean the manufacture of 3,000 cigars a day. If these cigars were packed end to end they would stretch from here to Milwaukee over 70 miles.

19 Men Employed.

Due to lack of help, cigar manufacturing in Janesville has had a considerable standstill. This is partly due to the fact that cigar makers for the past two years have entered other trades offering better wages. At the present time, only 19 men are employed in cigar making in this city.

Very little of the tobacco used in the manufacture of cigars in Janesville is grown in Wisconsin. It comes from Havana, Java, Sumatra, and Connecticut.

FOOTVILLE FARMER STRUCK BY TRAIN

Fred Hefty Escapes With Cuts and Bruises in Railroad Accident.

A majority of the cigars made in Janesville are consumed at home. Only three of the six factories sell any of their product out of town, and this is done in the neighborhood of Beloit, Milwaukee and Chicago.

The accident was witnessed by F. W. Snyder, Janesville, as he was on his way to take charge of the funeral of Mr. Stockland, who died in his home of his son, Bert. Strickland was a few rods from the scene of the accident, also by William Bratzke, who resides perhaps a dozen rods from the crossing.

He was driving his team hitched to a rawhide sled, having dropped out of sight after the two had been arrested, the result of Farace's dying statement.

It is said both have confessed. Farace, it is claimed, was held in a poker game over which he was playing cards.

BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN.—A pretty Hallowe'en party was given Friday evening by Mrs. Frank Egan, 303 Locust street, in compliment to Miss Margaret Parrett, bride-elect who has been married with several previous functions recently.

Twelve guests were met at the door of the Egan home by a ghost. They were led about the house, which had been converted into a den of demons and witches. The lights were dimmed and the witches pealed at the guests with large brooms. After a pleasant evening of stunts and games of Hallowe'en a luncheon was served. A small bag of rice with which to shower the bride-to-be, marked the place of exit.

When Miss Parrett returned to her home last evening she was confronted by several children of the neighborhood who, attired as ghosts, presented her with a kitchen shower. They also gave her a quilt which they themselves had made.

HUNDREDS LEARN GOOD HEALTH RULES

Keep Skin, Lungs, Intestines and Kidneys in Shape and Live 100 Years.

Judging by the large audience assembled at the Baptist church last evening Janesville people are anxious for information on the subject, "How to Live a Hundred Years." Buttermills was received by Dr. C. E. Barker to neutralize the old age pains accumulated in the interests after middle life, and patients to supply the protein needed in place of meat, which he thinks harmful, for people of sluggish elimination.

In simple language and giving forceful reasons for each step, the doctor outlined a series of rules for right living which he showed conclusively would tend to prolong life.

"These are," he said, "to keep the organs of elimination in good working condition, and to produce good blood which, he said, is the prime necessity for health."

Buttermills spoke for Disease.

He advised that Dr. Koch more than 35 years ago had discovered there is only one general disease which induces all health troubles, and that is impure blood. The organs of elimination, which he considers so important, are the lungs, for which he recommended a set of exercises for the skin, which he said should have its daily dry rub, or friction bath with some coarse agency, like a flesh brush or bath mitt.

For sluggishness of the intestines, which is another important organ of elimination, he recommended a course of treatment which includes:

1. a glass of hot water upon rising followed in five minutes by a glass of cold water; 2. abdominal exercises; 3. diet, avoid meat and eat plenty of green vegetables, fruits and cereals; 4. drink from 8 to 12 glasses of water a day; 5. eat fresh fruit or drink a glass of water in which a tablespoonful of bran has been stirred on roiling at night.

ROADS PROMISE TO CLEAN LOCAL DEPOTS

Janesville's two railroad depots are far for a good cleaning and painting. This has been promised the Chamber of Commerce by W. W. Milwaukee division agent of the Milwaukee road and A. W. Ober, division agent of the Northwestern, both of whom were in the city Friday in conference with Manager L. O. Holman.

"When I stepped off a train in Janesville for the first time," said Holman, "the dirty appearance of the outside and inside of the railroad stations made me think there was something to be done about it."

Janesville cannot afford to give such an impression to its visitors as that."

City officials have also been asked to do a bit of sanitary work by keeping the streets surrounding the railroad stations in better condition.

182 CARS OF BEETS ARRIVE DURING WEEK

San Domingo Black and Tan Republic

Washington, D. C.—"Christopher Columbus in placing the great western hemisphere on the map of the world, left his impress more deeply on what is now the Dominican Republic than on any other bit of land in the New World," says a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society concerning this country whose wardship under the United States has been under public discussion recently.

The very name of the capital of the republic, Santo Domingo, is a family affair with the Columbus brothers, the latter having given the discoverer name for his father this first permanent city established by Europeans in the Americas. The same name is applied to the island of which the republic is a part almost as commonly as its aboriginal name, Hispaniola, and finally the paternal name is further perpetuated in that of the republic itself.

Republic Holds Ashes of America's Discoverer.

The remains of Columbus are believed by investigators who have examined the evidence in the case to lie in the Cathedral of Santo Domingo City. The body of the discoverer was brought to the island of his early triumphs and placed beside that of his son, Diego. It was thought that the Spaniards removed the remains of Christopher Columbus when they transferred the relics to the French in 1795. It appears from later examinations of the burial vaults of the Cathedral, however, that the casket which was borne in such great state from Santo Domingo to Havana at the end of the eighteenth century, and from Havana to Spain two years later, contained instead the ashes of Diego, the son.

"The city of Santo Domingo grew to be a wonderful place during the early days of Spanish dominion, but Columbus did not live to see much of the development. His son, Diego Columbus, however, engraved the family name deeper on the city and the country of which it was the capital, setting up there a court of such royal splendor that it aroused the envy of the Spanish king.

Santo Domingo seemed destined to become the bustling metropolis of a western empire. But it became the victim of exploitation. After a turbulent history, during which the native Indians were exterminated and thousands of African slaves were imported, the latter assisted by mulattoes, rose, in the last half of the eighteenth century, abolished slavery, and drove their oppressors from the island. Though the land of the Dominican Republic reverted for a while to Spanish control, and later was considered by the Republic of Haiti, with which it shared the island, it established its independence in 1844 and has retained its individuality since.

"The territory which now constitutes the Dominican Republic has been subject at different periods to a number of invasions. It has been twice under the rule of Spain and has been controlled at other times by French, English and Haitians. The Spanish influence has been the strongest, and many of its customs and institutions are those of the Dominicans of today.

The Dominican Republic is peopled largely by mulattoes. While it has not been as badly torn by revolutions as the 'Black Republic' to the west, its history has by no means been one of peaceful development, and assassination and coups have played their part in determining the succession of its rulers.

San Domingo Almost Annexed to United States.

"A few years after the close of the Civil War in the United States the Dominican Republic sought annexation to this country. President Grant sent a commissioner to the island, an annexation treaty was drafted and accepted by the Dominican Senate, but its acceptance by the American Senate was recommended by our president. The Senate failed to act favorably on the matter and San Domingo has continued its independent existence. The country has been assisted by the United States, however, in the administration of its fiscal affairs since 1906. After it had entered financial straits and foreign creditors were threatening intervention, President Roosevelt arranged a treaty under which an American collector of customs was appointed to certain parts of the collections has been paid to the Dominican government and the remainder into a fund from which creditors are paid."

Presidential Campaigns

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

XXII. THE FOOLIES OF 1912.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—Those who are disengaged by the relatively unexciting character of national politics this year, and who are inclined to fear that we never will have another good rousing presidential campaign, should consider recent history.

The presidential show of 1908 was just such a fizzle from the dramatic and spectacular standpoint as the present one seems to be; but how nobly did 1912 redeem the reputation of the American politicians for staging a first-class show!

Several salient characteristics of our national political game were illustrated in the 1912 campaign. One of them is that a hot campaign is not made hot by burning issues, but rather by burning persons and animosities. Burning issues are no longer introduced into presidential campaigns—a fact of which the present one should afford all the proof that anyone requires. The really calorific questions are ducked by both parties by mutual consent, and if they are brought forward at all, it is by some third party which is in no danger of electing its ticket and having to meet them.

The somewhat meretricious glow which is given by the politicians to the discussion of current problems might be compared to the fox-fire which you see in the woods on summer nights. That is, it is a faint illumination given off by dead and rotten matter, and is capable of decaying none but the uninitiate. *

THE CONSPIRACY OF BOOZE.

Baooze dies hard. John Barleycorn does not travel to the grave with any cheerfulness. His ramifications were too far extended, he had too many slaves and too many of the half-criminal world in his array. It was a short step to get into the criminal class. The saloon has ever been the rendezvous for the fagged edge of humanity closely allied to crime. It was here that the thieves foregathered. It was natural, therefore, that when whiskey reached a price of $15 to $20 a quart, there was great temptation for the men who were not at all by nature and training averse to taking a forward step in law violation.

Hence the "Booze Conspiracy." First there was a loophole in the law which permitted withdrawals from distilleries for whiskey to be used for medicinal purposes. Here came in the prohibition agent appointed by the administration out of the waiting list of politicians. He was first made a crook by bribery and sharing the profits. Then came the other officials who became blind when freight cars loaded with whiskey were shipped to distributing centers. But there must be even a larger crime. It was impossible to obtain the necessary orders for release of whiskey from the warehouses. That was too palpable and no man wanted to risk himself in this open job. So resort was had to forgery and with a "Jim, the Penman" in the gang, the rest was easy. This accounts for the flood of whiskey that has appeared in most of the larger cities in the past few weeks.

With the discovery, the confession of criminals, and the arrest of many men concerned, comes the first step in ending the career of booze in the United States. The result cannot help but have its widespread results. The criminals in the whiskey business will be less bold. If the issuance of release orders is stopped there will be no more whiskey available. The crook will be obliged to confine himself to the poisonous, illicit drinks that soon either kill the victim or put him in such a mental and physical state that he is no longer a customer. Of course any man who sells this stuff, be he bootlegger or saloon-keeper "willing to take a chance," is an embryo murderer and ought to be in the list of those who come under the head of manslaughter in the criminal statutes.

There can be no compromise with the whiskey rings. There can be no loopholes left open however much they may seem to be for decent purposes like the supply of whiskey for medicine. It can't be done because there are too many men and too much money concerned in the handling and some are bound to be crooked. The exposure of the whiskey conspiracy has emphasized the necessity in Wisconsin for the people to get behind the Mulberger law and see that it wins at the election.

THE BUSINESS OF FARMING.

Cooperative marketing has come to be the solution of many economic problems of the farmer. If there was an organization in charge of wheat marketing for the farmers we would have a better situation. These have been tried here and there but have never been successful in any great measure because the organizations attempting them have paid more attention to politics than to business. Farming is a business and needs the standard methods of business applied like any other productive industry. In a magazine this week appears an article telling of the raisin industry of California and how it has come up from chaos to a stabilized business by marketing on business lines.

The extent to which fruit growers in the Eastern States are banding together to market their products is significant evidence of a movement which is rapidly becoming of national importance. In Chester, within a fifty-mile radius of New York, the growers have created their own association, erected a cold storage warehouse and invested in a squadron of ten motor trucks. They have worked out a plan of marketing their products in New York and Philadelphia, carrying them direct to their purchasers. With a keen eye for business, they are advertising for return loads through the intervening territory. Similar organizations are being formed in New Jersey, and it is quite evident that some of them, at least, are pretty far advanced along the road of eliminating the middleman's profits.

In the dairy regions feeding New York and the other great cities many collecting and milk shipping stations are now being managed by the farmers. They were driven to do this by the collapse of the condensed milk market in Europe. The condensers were caught by the extremely high sugar prices that prevailed in the spring, and the effect upon the price of their product was such as to make it impossible for Europe to continue her purchases. Therupon the farmers depending upon these condensed milk plants, facing huge losses, determined to conduct their own business as far as they could, and they are still set out to improve the present systems of marketing.

One of the greatest aids is the American Farm Bureau Federation which, if it carries out its plans, will be of mighty assistance to the farmer in getting into the real business of farming.

Cuba faces bankruptcy owing to a too large supply of sugar. We thought they had used all the surplus in the Manhattan cocktails served to Americans. Another economic fallacy.

Gov. Cox spoke in Marion and he was probably very sorry that Harding was out of town. He might have convinced Warren that he should withdraw in the Cox favor.

Lloyd George seems to be worrying more over the coal situation than about the Irish. He places the black above the green.

Madison has reduced the retail price of milk. That has nothing to do with Janesville.

Maybe the telegraph news editors will hold out as long as Mac Swiney.

Tonino and Trotzky are now facing revolution and the biter is getting bit.

HOME.

Curling smoke from a chimney low,
And only a few more steps to go.
Notes passed at a window pane,
Watching for someone to come again,
And I am the someone they wait to see—
These are the joys which life gives to me.

What has my neighbor excelling this,
His wife's love and a baby's kiss?
What if his chimney tower higher?
Peace is found at our humble fire.
Peace if his silver and gold are more?
Rest is ours when the day is over.

Strive for fortune and slave for fame,
The world struggle for stays the same,
Rich man and poor man dream and pray,
For a home where laughter shall ever stay,
And the wheels go round and men spend their might.

Home, where the kettle shall gaily sing,
Is all that matters with serif or king;
Gold and silver and laurel fame
Are only sweet when the heart's romance
With a cheerful fire and the loved ones there.

Are we afraid of the wolves of care?
So let me come home at night to rest.
With those who know I have done my best;
Let the wife rejoice and my children smile
And I'll know by their love that I am not a failure.

For this is conquest and world success—
A home where abides happiness.

This column has been so besieged by presidential candidates asking for its support that I have decided to hold this whole matter by accepting the nomination outright.

We are all wrong in this disappointing so-called gentleman, all of whom are particular friends of ours, but we can't see any other way to keep harmony in this country.

We have not yet decided just which party we will be the end to support us—may be both. We will look over carefully and see which one is most apt to win.

We don't think it is any of the country's business what our platform is, but we will name a few of our views:

1. That the next war should be postponed twelve hundred years.

2. That the government should not be run on the play plan.

3. That the government should offer a million dollar bonus for the invention of a voice less cat.

4. That the presidential salary be immediately raised to one million dollars a year.

5. That the people are willing to stop either way which will get the most votes.

That anybody who wants the railroads can have them.

6. That all these policies are liable to change without notice.

Who's Who Today

THOMAS W. HARDWICK.

Thomas W. Hardwick, former U. S. senator, has been chosen democratic candidate for governor in Georgia. He won out in the primaries over Clifford Walker, former state attorney general.

Hardwick was defeated for reelection to the senate during the war because of his opposition to war and to Wilson, but he refused to allow his wife to attend the session the first day. The event was almost as exciting than that. In fact, nobody so much as slipped anybody else's face; but the contests were hotly contested and there were two hundred of them while Roosevelt won about nineteen.

Then Mr. Roosevelt bolted with the announcement that the right would between the "people" and the corrupt politicians. Came then the Bull Moose meeting in Chicago with its Marathon cheerers, its complete harmony, and its crusading spirit, married only by the question in some minds as to just how and why Mr. La Follette had been ditched.

The Democratic Convention in Baltimore was hardly less exciting, and here again the reason was that intense and conflicting personal interests were involved. Everyone saw that a Democratic nomination was very likely to amount to an election. Both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Clark had supporters who were ready to yell and vote to the last for their heroes. The situation became truly dramatic as Clark forced his way slowly to with in a few votes of the coveted goal, and then slowly fell away again until the charge of the Illinois delegation, under Roger Sullivan, settled the bat in favor of the New Jersey professor.

The three-cornered vote of 1912 shed some interesting light on the political complexion of various sections of the country. It showed that the widest cleavage in America is that between the West and the Northwest. It was the West that voted for Roosevelt, that marched to Armageddon singing hymns—that, in a word, took seriously to itself the hope of a rejuvenation of American politics and of an effective program of liberal reform. It was the Northeast which stood fast before Mr. Taft, unaffected by the winds of chance which swept him away.

It was the solid South that elected Woodrow Wilson, solely because he was a Democrat.

It was no more carried away by the moral fervor of the occasion than was the Northeast. In a word, this vote demonstrated what has become vastly more apparent since then, that the West is the true home of liberalism and radicalism in America. The West's belief in change. The West has natural resources and it wants them conserved. The East wants the status quo. The East has money massed in private ownership and wants to keep it there. The fact that the South is Democratic, by habit, and the North, Republican, for the same reason, has lost its significance.

The sectional line of political cleavage in the United States, so far as there is one, has turned at right angles and now approximately coincides with the Mississippi river.

HOW THEY COME TO GRIEF

In a recent 3,800 mile automobile tour I happened to be the local doctor on the scene in three instructive disasters. And now that the automobile is coming to be one of our big killers it may be worth while to consider the preventable causes of these three preventable accidents.

The first one occurred in a large city. A driver just ahead signaled that he intended to turn a left corner. He was going along at a speed of 20 miles an hour and slowed down very little for the turn. He turned a pretty left corner, just a little too much to the left, and a little fellow scooting hitherward from the left side street could not avoid colliding with our road. The car turned over. Kept me nearly an hour nursing the two wounded. Moral: Pass nothing till you are over the hill.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE:

I'm glad the baby keeps putting on a half pound or so every week without fail. For one thing it seems to indicate regular habits, which will help him in business, and for another thing I want him to grow up into a strong husky kid with at least as much muscle as brain. Of course I'm a great believer in the power of mind over matter, as who wouldn't be when you stop and consider what a few misguided people did to millions and millions of bottles of strong but brainless liquor by just putting their heads together and concentrating, but still at the same time I don't want the baby to be too heavy as a result of too much thinking and not enough action, and you can't begin too early to harden him up for his battles with life.

How about giving him a little cold shower the first thing every morning? Not under the regular shower, of course—you got to use your brain in these things—but say just by squeezing out a big sponge over him. Maybe it might be a good thing to wake him up that way and get him used to the little shocks of life.

There's nothing more invigorating and hardening than a good old cold shower, the first thing every morning, and the only reason I don't take one myself is because these hotel rooms mostly haven't got showers. Of course I suppose I could drop myself into a tubful of cold water, but after all that's not a shower, and you know I always was a great believer in the principle of a thing.

And speaking of bathing the baby I hope and trust you will give him a little privacy with his baths. Of course I realize it takes two to give a baby a bath, two including the baby, and as long as the baby has instinct enough not to invite a third in I don't see as how anybody else has a right to. It's my opinion that these abnormally shy people that walk around the world tripping over their own blouses were babies that had their baths in public.

Ever thine,

JOE.

Tessie's reply discusses paper clothes and other odd matters.

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a single man 29 years of age and have gone with several girls as regular sweethearts, but never could care for any of them more than a girl friend. Then I met a little girl about two years ago who seemed to be more than all this world to me. Any girl ever was sweet and nice, she was. She is about 29 years of age. She and I worked very close together—more than any two would go to work and talk to her very often. While she never would come to me and speak to me, I didn't see anything wrong with that, but still I never could understand her ways.

She promised to be my little girl for always—some time, but never would tell me when. I have been away from her home town eight months. I write to her and she always answers my letters, but sometimes she waits so long I think she has stopped writing. And when she does write she writes just as if she were in a hurry and didn't seem to be interested. I ask her a lot of things in my letters when I write, but she never answers them, which she could very easily do. I think at times she has almost forgotten me.

She hasn't any father or mother to care for her, and neither have I. She always stays with her sister and she and her sister treat her just as nice as any one could. I live with a sister, too, who treats me the same way, but still I think I would be better satisfied with a home of my own.

Would you advise me to stop writing to this girl and try to find a new sweetheart? I would like your advice.

M. L. K.

Write to the girl again and instead of asking several questions make one letter pointed, and ask if she loves you and will marry you. Such a letter will surely bring an answer which will show you what course to take in the future. If she does not give you satisfaction, you may as well make up your mind she does not care for you, in which case try to forget her and find another girl.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young woman 29 years of age and have been married. I have one little son. My husband and I have not lived together for three years and I have not heard from him in that time.

I have been going with a young man 29 years of age and I love very much and he does me. He tells me he does and he used to write to me every day, but now it is not quite so often as he is at work. He wants me to get a divorce and says we will get married. He says he is fond of me without me and that he will come to his home and stay on a visit until I get a divorce paid for. Then we will get married.

Do you think he loves me or not? What should I do? He has turned down all of his poor two or three times for me. M. L. K.

The boy may love you, but I do not know his own mind and he is most apt to have the fire of his love burn out or turn in another direction.

You are very young and have much happiness ahead of you if you do the right thing and do not make another unwise choice. It seems to me that it would be a great mistake to marry a young man of 29, not only because his love may not be constant, but because he is too young to assume the responsibilities of marriage and to earn a living wage.

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Stewed Vegetable à la Serbiana—Quarter dozen ripe tomatoes, remove seeds and stem of eight green peppers, slice; three large onions, sliced; two pounds of weiners, sliced one-half inch thick. Put all into large pan; season with salt, pepper, paprika, a dash of chili powder. Cover and stew for three-quarters of an hour. This dish serves twelve.

Fruit Compote—Peel and slice four bananas, dice six apples, four oranges, four slices pineapple (fresh or canned), three pears, six peaches, six kiwi fruit, one cup sugar and let stand for one hour. Serve in sherbet glasses with whipped cream and a maraschino cherry on top.

Combination Salad—Sliced tomatoes, cucumbers, Spanish onion, green peppers, on bed of head lettuce leaves, with mayonnaise dressing.

Apple and Nut Retses—Three cups of flour, two eggs, salt, warm water to make a stiff dough (not too stiff). Mix well, then take out of bowl and beat on floured board until smooth. This cannot be done too well, as the stretching depends on the thoroughness of the kneading. Turn out on a clean board, cover with warm pan for ten minutes. Cover a table with clean old table cloth, sprinkle with flour. Place dough in center of table, put spoonful of melted shortening in center of dough and stretch carefully over the table, taking care not to break the dough. Continue stretching. When it is as thin as skin take edges, sprinkle with flour. Place dough in center of table, put spoonful of melted shortening in center of long in center.

ter of dough, and stretch carefully over the table cloth, taking care not to tear the dough in the middle. When it is as thin as skin take off thin edges, sprinkle surface with ground apples, sugar, cinnamon, English walnut meats and a little melted butter. Then take up one end of the table cloth and lay over the dough, lifting the cloth as the dough rises. Tie a rope, place into broiled baking pan, paint top with thick cream (to brown nicely) and bake in moderate oven.

KITCHEN HINTS
Scrub the poultry. The skin of poultry should not only be washed but scrubbed with a soft brush and warm water in which a tablespoonful of baking soda has been dissolved. Wash vegetables carefully. Celery, lettuce and other salad greens, because eaten raw, must be washed with the leaves removed. They should be washed leaf by leaf for insect life, washed in several waters, and then wiped dry with a clean cloth and put in a cold place to become crisp.

Do Not Forget the Eggs—The ordinary way to break an egg is to hit it against another egg or over the edge of the mixing bowl, and let the contents stream over the side of the shell without considering whether the latter is clean.

Even if there is dirt, wash it off as clean as it seems to be, as clean as it seems for it may have come from a dirty nest or have been carelessly handled.

Eggs should therefore always be washed before breaking.

New Hats for Fall Must Be Low, Soft and Comfortable

By ELOISE.

The trimming of the new hats is their least important item. They can be made of almost any fabric, draped or folded or fitted in almost any way, but they must be low and soft and comfortable and they must constitute that picturesque frame for the face which, after all, is their one excuse to have.

In the Parisian world of fashion there is an arbitrary and unwritten rule that felt hats are only for mid-season wear. This rule is being observed more or less on this side of the ocean this year. Blocked felt hats in light colors as well as in dark built from all sorts and conditions of material. They are of duchess and velvet, of tailors' satin and of hatters' plush, of ribbon and of braid, of lace and maline. They come down well about the eyes and face, and hug the hair, but the resulting shapes show a pleasing, almost bewildering variety.

Here are three new chapeaux which follow the new rules, low, soft, comfortable and a pleasing frame to the face.

The hat at the left is a soft chin chin shape made of pretty duchess. The headsize is large, bringing the hat low and making it comfortable.

SERMONS IN PARAGRAPHS.

Are you happy? If so, how long will it last? And over what, some toy or trinket, some changing fancy of today? Is it something which you must some day surrender? These all return to the dust from which they came. He truly is happy who holds in his heart that which can never die. What is that? It is the "Love of Christ which passes all understanding." He truly is happy, who possesses an eternal love.—Pastor G. J. Muller, St. Peter's Lutheran Church.

No man is without God, even though he denies the existence of God. Christ says: "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." Are the treasures of your heart of this earth? Then you trust in a god that will be eaten by moths and rust, or stolen by thieves. The greatest thief of all, Death, will strip you of all earthly treasures. Therefore, "lay up for yourself treasures in heaven where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal." These treasures had it learned that the mother had in the eternal and merciful God, the God of the Bible. There seek them as one of smart good taste.

Before Christ's time men were lost in the crowd. But he discovered the individual. And what he did can never be undone, if life is to be worth while. He said: "How much is a man better than a sheep?" Any man, no matter how poor he is, is worth more than a sheep. He didn't care any more for Pilate than he did for the thief on the cross. He didn't care any more for Pilate than he did for the man whose value according to his individual value to himself and to God, His value to society, was determined after his value to himself and God was properly placed. But we forget this. We talk about "the garbage man," "the coal man," "the mail man," and most of us don't know who these are nor what their names are. We don't care. All we want is our garbage hauled away, our coal and mail delivered on time. But if the world is redeemed we shall need to place Christ's estimate on each individual. Apart from some high ideal of the worth of man, no one is going to make any great effort for his redemption.—Rev. F. F. Lewis, Pastor of Cargill M. E. Church.

Sibley, Iowa—Pending that he was arrested at the same time as Wojciech on the same charge, was fined $100 and was given a month in jail. At Sibley's home the still was in operation and the fluid was dripping into a pail when the officers raided the place.

Leavenworth, Kansas—Mrs. H. C. Nelson has purchased the Stone Station property there. Mr. Nelson has an auction on the farm on Wednesday, Oct. 20, after which she will take possession of her new home.

FAMILY OF FIVE SUFFERS POISONING FROM MILK IN CAN

Orfordville—Dr. Miller was called to the home of M. O. Mahlum, town of Newark, Wednesday, to administer to the father and mother, two sons and one daughter, all of whom had been taken suddenly ill. One member of the family, a girl, was at the house, and a neighbor, an escaped prisoner, was present.

The doctor diagnosed the case as one of ptomaine poisoning. It was learned that the mother had been taking some cottage cheese from milk allowed to stand until thoroughly sour and thickened in a can. It is thought that the bacteria came from this source.

Men are laying concrete flooring in the west part of the building occupied by the Bower City Machine Company.—Jacob Blumer received a car of baled hay Thursday. He will feed it on his farm west of town. Irving Holden and Louis Leonard went to Chicago the early part of the week and will be employed there. Mr. N. Leaver has purchased Simon Olson farm in the town of Newark and will take possession in the spring.—Mrs. H. C. Nelson has sold her farm just west of town and has purchased the Stone Station property in the village. She has an auction on the farm on Wednesday, Oct. 20, after which she will take possession of her new home.

MILTON JUNCTION

PICK BADGERS TO WIN; GOLD ALSO FAVORITE

Coach Liebhardt's Badger football stars are picked to defeat Northwestern, team of Evanston, Ill., on Wisconsin's field this afternoon. Against a line of veterans, McDevitt is putting up an aggregation of flashes.

While Northwestern won from the Gophers three weeks ago, they are up against a different kind of squad this Saturday. They not only will have to show what they have, but will have to use every bit of it, according to the dope.

What makes the contest more interesting is the fact that the loser will be out of the running for the conference title. And it is taken for granted that Wisconsin will not be that loser.

Iowa and Illinois, Next in importance is the clash between Iowa and Illinois at Urbana. Although the Hawkeyes are after the scalps of the Illinoians because of their defeat in the first game, the underdogs in today's contest, though they are the favorite with the fans.

Ohio state and Indiana are picked to crush the hopes of Purdue and Minnesota. Michigan clashes with the Aggies of Michigan and the two members of the Big Ten to bite the dust. Notre Dame rules higher in the estimation of the spectators.

At Beloit, the Gold meets Lawrence. The heavy outfit of the Gateway city college seems a sure winner. The Appleton boys passed through Janesville last night.

ACT ON RULE FOR PLAYERS' ELIGIBILITY IN CITY LEAGUE

Because of misunderstandings in the personnel of the several teams of the City League, H. M. Lampert, secretary of the Janesville Bowling Association, today issued the statement giving the names of the men eligible to play on the eight teams:

"The following named men are eligible to bowl in either of the leagues in the City League or the Janesville Bowling Association, effective October 12, 1920."

"On and after this date all changes in the personnel of any team in the City League must be made in writing and must be in the hands of the secretary of the city league at least two weeks before such player shall be eligible to bowl in the city league of the B. A. This rule will be strictly enforced."

JANESVILLE HIGH OFF FOR MONROE

Packed into a sextet of junior cars, the pugnacious crew of the Janesville High school charged off to the town of Green county this morning to tackle the Monroe high school football team there this afternoon. The student body at each institution is shaking with anxiety over the outcome.

Monroe has not won a game this season. Janesville is in the same unsteady boat. Both teams are heavier than in past seasons. Each is considered a weak combination, a cased green and erecting a vast amount of experience to put them in the blues. Chances Good.

Janesville's chances this year, however, are the best that it has had for several seasons. Underneath a history of six defeats for the last few years, the Janes are pushing themselves strenuously determined to change the showing. The big improvement last Saturday in the Edgerton game gives hopes for the night with 223. Samson No. 2, defeated the Gazette three nights ago. Cleveler rolled second high and the Woolen Mills team swiped three from Hamlin. Marquette, the American Express, got only one point from the Rock River Alumina Co., while the Cadillac team was treated rough on its first night in the league, losing all games to the Parker Pen.

FIGHT DECISIONS

New York—Jack Sharkey, New York bantamweight, was awarded the judges' decision over Charlie LeDoux, bantamweight champion of France, in a 15 round bout.

Nebraska—Miss Nellie Jacobson, 70, sat down in a chair to rest and expired from heart failure a few minutes later.

BIG POTATO CROP AND APPLES TOO

Both Increased in Production Report for September—Prices Lower.

Wisconsin shipments of commercial potatoes and apples both show an increase over 1919 so far this year according to the report of the cooperative crop reporting service of the department of agriculture for Wisconsin. The report says:

The Wisconsin commercial potato crop prospect increased 14,000 barrels during September, according to Mr. Becker's conditions for growth and shipping of late apples were excellent during the month and the crop is larger than anticipated earlier in the year.

Production is now forecasted at 140,000 barrels compared to 130,000 a month ago and total production of 1919 was 100 barrels in 1919 and 114,000 in 1918.

Condition on Oct. 1 indicated a production of 62 per cent of a full crop compared to 57 on Sept. 1 and 46 a year ago.

Condition in Door county is estimated at 78 percent; Bayfield, 90; Crawford and Vernon, 80; Sauk, 62; and Richland, 50.

Potato Crop. Total potato shipments are estimated at 23,100 cars compared to 21,200 from Sept. 1 last year and a final estimate of 20,000 for the 1919 crop.

Conditions Greener.

Condition normal on Sept. 1 to 71 on Oct. 1, compared to 71 per cent for the 1919 crop on Oct. 1. Commercial acreage is estimated at 1 per cent more than last year and the production at 74 percent of a normal or 115 per cent of last year.

The increased prospect is due to beneficial rains from Sept. 1 to 10, followed by warm weather during September. Frost had killed the vines in the northeastern district and elsewhere only in scattered localities, so that a large acre was still green on Oct. 1.

It is estimated that 82 per cent of the crop remained to Oct. 1, compared to 73 per cent on Oct. 1, a year ago.

Potatoes are reported in market and said to be doing well because of unsatisfied market conditions. Prices about Oct. 1 average $1.25 per hundredweight, compared to $1.75 a year ago.

HARDING WILL CARRY NEW YORK

Shipments in Minnesota will be approximately 25,000 cars compared to 23,100 in 1919. Average price to grower on Oct. 1 was $1.24 per hundred weight. Practically all other commercial potato states show an increase in prospective shipments as compared to last year.

year would carry the state by 200,000 majority. Judge Miller has a splendid chance of slipping in by a narrow margin.

Hopeless for Democrats. Sixth, the national situation is almost hopeless for the Democrats. The Cox campaign has not turned enough votes to cause worry to the republicans. The speech of Senator Harding at Des Moines on the league issue, in which he said he sought election "not for reelection," has driven out of the republican party a number of intellectuals who cannot follow the gyrations of political expediency in any part or individual.

The defections are few but notable. The extent of repudiation is so great that on Senator Wanless' opposition to woman suffrage will not cost him his seat. The weakness of the candidate the democrats put up and the apathy of Tammany has lost much sleep or concern their fate if he lost to Smith or another man—wishes. What chances have even the women against him? He has stamped him as a flexible person who recognizes that bipartisan transactions are not only unsatisfactory to himself but the two parties concerned.

Ready to Trade. In the general election, Bill Barnes on one hand and a Chairman Murphy on the other can still run things. And Mr. Murphy is far more interested in the election of Al Smith for governor than he is in the success of the democratic nomination. The president of the United States Senate. Wherefore the reader may put New York down in the republican column, and at the same time make up his mind that the verdict will reflect no affirmation or negation on the proposed arbitration issue after some kind of a League of Nations. The whole situation pins all a thoroughly local situation pins grievances on purely domestic affairs as managed at Washington.

Belgium Faces General Miners' Strike on Nov. 1.

Brussels, Oct. 16—Miners in the vicinity of Mons have joined those in the Charleroi field in demanding a wage increase and have threatened to strike. Belgium, as a result, faces a general miners' strike on November 1.

Maria Mitchell.

"Come, Maria, and look through the telescope," called Mr. Mitchell to his small daughter.

"Oh, father, isn't it lovely?" exclaimed Maria after she had looked at a total eclipse of the sun at Nantucket.

"When I get big I'm going to find lots of new stars and write a book all about them," announced Maria.

At the age of 29 years Maria did find a "New Star" and she was given a gold medal by the King of Denmark. Maria Mitchell (1818-1888) became Professor of Astronomy and Director of the Observatory at Vassar College.

SCHOOL SPORTS

Simple Signals Best

"The simplest set of football signals is the best," says T. E. Jones, Director of Athletics in the University of Wisconsin.

A simple kind not easy to detect. Dorsey Rebo—My father must have been up to all sorts of mischief when he was boy.

Harold Daniels—Why?

Dad—Because he knows exactly what questions to ask me when he wants to know what I have been doing.

Of course, all the other numbers given are merely blinds to cover up the ones really important.
